

CORPORATE LEADERSHIP AWARD

The Timken Company

For more than 100 years, The Timken Company has focused on value creation for diverse industries and market segments. Though Timken has grown considerably since its founding in 1899, solving customer problems is still at the core of its business, just like it was when founder Henry Timken patented a tapered roller bearing design that made life easier for freight wagon operators and their mules.

Getting involved in the local community is a Timken tradition that began with the founder and continues to inspire associates today. With facilities in more than 170 communities in 27 countries worldwide, Timken's local neighborhoods are more varied than they were in the early 20th century but the commitment to providing community support remains the same. Timken associates volunteer time and leadership talent, and invest financial resources to improve the quality of life for neighbors, families, and colleagues around the world.

In 1947, the company established the Timken Charitable Trust, a separate charitable fund that is fully funded by donations from The Timken Company. Since its inception, the Trust has made more than $34 million in community grants. In 1957, the company started the Timken Education Fund to provide college tuition scholarships to the children of Timken associates as a way to encourage excellence in education.

The company's goal is to increase community engagement by matching future generations of Timken leaders with community leadership opportunities; to continue to encourage employee volunteerism and enhance community volunteer measurement techniques; and to advance the company's efforts to strategically integrate community support with its global business priorities.
